ARTISTS' WORKS WILL BE SHOWN

Products of Twelve Living American Included in Modernistic Prints

An art exhibit including the products of twelve living American artists will be held at the library in the near future.

The exhibit consists of modernistic prints, the work of artists available as William Gropper, Adolph Dehn, Thomas Hart Benton, John Sloan, Louis Bouche, Guy Pene Du Bois, and Reginald Marsh. The originals from which the prints were executed were selected by Jury, composed of Lorin Brocke, Alexander Brook, Adolf Dehn, and Hughes Mearns. The jury was given advice and counsel on all selections by any authorities from every section of the United States.

It is the aim of this jury to make the best examples of modernistic art available to the public at a reasonable cost. Currently, reasonably priced original prints are not to be found, for the expensive process have made this possible.

Gramp and Sonny-Boy See Wartburg's Football Game

Scene: Football field at the last Wartburg game.

Gramp: Gee golly!

"Yes, son, what is it?"

"Why aren't any of the boys and girls cheering and watching the game like the rest of them?"

"Well son, I guess they just left it to the cheer leaders to do tonight."

"But Grandpa, what's the use of having those cheerleaders prancing and jumping around, even if they aren't going to yells?"

"I don't give up so easy. There isn't much use of them unless they get some organized cheering, Grandpa!"

"That's when all the boys and girls get together and yell under the leadership of the cheerleaders. I can remember way back in 1936 when we played Brownstown. We yelled so hard that they talked of anchoring the seats down across the field so that those weren't the days."

"Oh, boy! I'll bet they were and I'll bet it sure helped the team too."

"Well they didn't always win, but they certainly put up a real good battle because they knew that we were behind them, winning or losing."

There goes the gun! Come on Grandpa, let's hurry home. Mom said that she would have some hot soup ready for us!"

The vines which sprouted from the seeds which Senator helped in the kitchen sink drain of the women's dormitory after a watermelon feed, are doing very nicely.

Professor H. J. Kuhlman preached at the Zion Lutheran church at Delaney, Sunday, Oct. 11. He substituted for Pr. F. H. Walker, who is attending the Texas Lutheran convention.

Wartburg College To Remain In Waverly

APPROPIATIONS INCREASED 30%

Newly Elected Board of Regents Shows Wide Representation.

Wartburg college remains in Waverly according to decisions of the third biennial convention of the American Lutheran church held in Sioux City, Iowa, Oct. 8 to 15. The suggestion of a removing group to another location did not meet with much favor and were not so seriously considered. Madison, Wis., was the other site suggested for the college by the west senior college.

The appropriations for maintaining the college were increased 30% over last year, an endowment fund was created for Wartburg and $1,000 added to its funds. According to the resolution passed, the group voted to keep the college at the present site and to endowment for the merged colleges.

Election Results.

Those who were elected to the Wartburg board of regents are: Rev. Theodore Hoyer, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; L. Keeb, Davenport, Iowa; Rev. Theodore Graf, Rudy; C. T. Langbehi, St. Paul, Minn.; Rev. Mathias Eau, Eau Claire, Wis.; A. F. Miller, Sumner, Iowa; Rev. Theodore Hoyer, Rudy.

Dr. C. C. Hein of Columbus, Ohio, was elected president of the American Lutheran church for the period of six years. Members of the faculty of Wartburg were also re-elected to their positions. Treasurer Brandtjen will again serve as treasurer of the college, Rev. Hein, and Dr. G. J. Neumann will work on the board of publications.

COLLEGE FROSH DON GREEN CAPS

Mark Huss Leads Sophomores In Cunning Attack on Freshman Students.

"Button, button, who's got the button?" Right now freshmen are wearing green caps at Wartburg.

Formal initiation at Wartburg college started with the frosh dance with a program in the gymnasium during the first week of the school period. Since then, the small but, nevertheless, the ever-present green and orange freshmen caps have been on and off upperclassmen's closmer.

Among the initial ceremony Helen Wetterling took dictation from the honorable, long-revered, of Walter Krebs; Derwood Jorgensen, Mathilda Schumacher, Bindley Orr, and Sigmund Sandrock were questioned by upperclassmen and assigned various duties to perform as initiation for the green caps. The rules which all freshmen must follow are: Homecoming were then read by Edwin Seidel, student president, and he also led them in yells.

Sophomore leaders of Wartburg Northwestern football game, representatives of the freshmen and upper classes will compete in a tug of war. If the freshmen should lose, the initiation rules will be in force for a short time longer.

The Tuesday evening before Homecoming there will be a freshmen presents a program for the upperclassmen in the Old Main North hall, featuring the singing of the "Wartburg Hymn" which was then serenaded the residents of the dormitories for a few short hours.

Seven year girls returned the compliment by entertaining student nurses in the Bassinger with amusical selections before breakfast. Every one also displayed their talents with an attempt to relieve the boarding club meals at various times.

The sophomore committee in charge of the induction of the freshmen class is headed by Mark Huss. He is assisted by Walter Krebs, George Otto, Dorris Poulson and Gertrude Grosshans.

Reserve evening of Oct. 21, for Adelphian carnival.

CLASS INSPECTS WATERLOO PRESS

Close Observation Reveals Interesting and Amusing Results.

Hot off the press! The Journalism news reporting class under Professor R. F. Baldwin in regard to Waterloo last Tuesday, Oct. 13, and as per writing exhibition of the Waterloo courier go to press. This proved to be an interesting and practical demonstration of modern newspaper publishing methods.

Leaving at 2:30, the five members of the class and Professor Kuhlmann were conducted through the Courier's entire plant after their arrival, by Edwin Bruns, the Courier's "Mr. Inside Cub" sports columnist. To the left as they entered the plant, the press started slowly and working up speed, the huge, interesting gigantic machine, whirled the long ribbons of paper over the rollers in a steady blur of print to the accompaniment of a deafening, frenetic roar. 30,000 papers can be printed in an hour, ready for distribution, in one hour.

Other interesting matures were the seven teletype machines which click out news from all parts of the country by means of electricity operated by operators. The class also was shown papers from City Hall days in the advertising of the class was directed to the society editor, who was found comfortably ensconced on her desk chair reading "Love Affairs and Like This".

Fifteen Leaguers Guest Members at Denver Rally

A group of about fifteen leaguers from Wartburg attended the Fall rally of the Cedar Valley Federation of Luther Leagues in Denver, Iowa, Sunday, Oct. 11. The convention opened with a service at St. Peter's Lutheran church at 10:30 a.m.

After lunch a short devotional period was held at which Rev. A. A. Holm from Cedar Falls was the speaker. A business meeting followed, and officers were elected for the coming year. The convention closed with group entertainment in the form of a Devotee caper in the basement of the church.

STUDENTS STAGE ELECTION RALLY

Roosevelt Leads Election By a Margin of Eighteen Over Landon.

Roosevelt will carry the forthcoming election by a comfortable margin if the Wartburg straw vote taken last Thursday is any indication of the national results. Results of the chapel election were as follows:

A rousing political speech delivered by Dr. Ditzen, and several demonstrations of cheering for both candidates preceded the voting. Each party was represented by a candidate who, with supporters, attempted to win votes for their party. Thompson, who disgruntled Landonites say must have been included in the Democratic score.

OUR REFORMATION

October thirty-first again calls to the minds of all Protestants the great debt which the world owes Martin Luther and the great debt which we owe to the principles he established in the Reformation. The posting of Luther's ninety-five theses on the Castle Church door in Wittenberg in 1517 marks the birth of the Protestant Reformation.

These facts of the Reformation which all Protestants should treasure have been summed up in ten points: the Bible, Bible inspiration by faith, universal priesthood of all believers, right of private judgment, the people's part in public worship, universal education, an unmutilated sacrament, Christian hymns, Protestant parsonage, and civil and religious liberty.

Reformation and Education.

Imagine the world today without all these principles. Every public school system on earth is a gift of the Reformation, for not only did Luther aim at the highest education for all, but he also worried about the neglect of educating girls as well as boys, of having state schools, of emphasizing parental obligations, and of establishing libraries as the hall of memory of all education.

As you celebrate the Reformation in worship or thankful contemplation, think not of the posting of those ninety-five theses as the important phase of the Reformation. Instead think of them as a means by which God used Luther as a tool of God is the only source, rule, and guide of Christian faith and life; of Wartburg, where Luther was translated from the Bible into German and finished the New Testament; and of Wittenberg, where as professor of theology, Luther expounded the Bible to the pastors of the church.

HATS

As the leaves are increasingly becoming an intermixture of color, the more doughty sex of the campus simultaneously takes to the wearing of hats.

A hat, according to Webster's International Dictionary, is a covering for the head. However, in the modern sense of the term, a hat may be defined as that which conceals what is most important to any student. That be as it may.

On the other hand, there is something to be said for the wearing of a hat which is significance. How many people stop to observe and consider that it might be possible to characterize a man by the manner in which he wears his hat? That a slight tip to the front or back, or to either side might do much to reveal a man's personality?

A Bit of Observation.

After a bit of observation the following conclusion might be drawn:

A student who wears his hat on the back of his head is jolly, careless, and not inclined to worry over back school work or examinations.

The student who wears his hat squarely on his head is well balanced. He may be studious, but he does not worry much about them. He may be fortunate but he does not let good fortune upset him. Fortune is something by which students are schooled unmoved.

The student who wears his hat down over his eyes may be a thinker, or a boaster, or a student with a very active mind. A bit of advice to this kind of person might be, "do not let your hat work a handicap for you".

But how about the student who wears a hat? The wise saying: "You can not stop the birds from flying in the air but you can keep them from making nests in your hair," might apply to them.

After all is said and done, hats are no matter how they are worn, and may they always serve their purpose.

WHY HAVE INITIATION?

There is one burning question on the campus at this time. It is especially prominent when the green and orange topped ladies and gentlemen whom the upper classmen refer to as "freshies!"

Why have initiation? Isn't initiation just the natural desire to dominate the weak and less experienced? To see some of the upper classmen make the freshmen pay penalties one of his childhood days when one got the most enjoyment from sprinkling kitten by the tail and then listening to its harmless, though defiant f-f-fst!

The proper initiation has its place, however, in a Christian college as well as in any other. The upper classmen are interested in the freshmen and want to introduce them to college life and the right attitude toward everything at the same wonder why they are required to use only one door or "button" at the command of their superiors. Some upperclassmen may not even realize or appreciate the honor of polishing an upper classman's shoes. After the ordeal is over and he is initiated, the freshman himself will see the humor of the affair and will remember it as an exciting time in his college days.

Initiation on the whole is a gesture of welcome from upper classmen who are really glad to receive the freshmen into their midst but take this way to get it. A freshman must also display good sportsmanship to break that upperclassman scowl into a grin of fellowship and admiration.

What Would the Trumpet Be If Printed 30 Years Ago?

Dean G. J. Neumann Heads First Issue of "Quarterly."

If this issue of the Trumpet were to appear in German instead of English poem by Dean G. J. Neumann, a German essay by Frau E. Hendrikx, four pages of personals, a half page of jokes, all but one in English, and besides all this a joke in the "My friend is about the only dad I am," readers would mark the copy "in triumphant."

Certainly some alumni would be interested in the first issue of Wartburg Quarterly, issued Nov. 15, 1906. The masthead for this number includes Gustav Neumann, editor, Otto Eberhardt as business manager, Herbert Krieg, Fred Volkmer, George Lambrecht, William Froehling and Siegmund Ide as associate editors. Emil Wiederaenders was assistant business manager.

Style, Content Differs.

That a college paper 30 years ago differs greatly in style and content from a publication of today is evident from a review of this first issue.

Most features of the November issue was a "brief biography" of Rev. Adam Ernst, Sr., pastor, written by G. C. Biesin of '02. Ernst was also the subject of an essay, "Uber den Nutzen einer Religion," written by Ida C. Ernst, '07.

The issue was enlivened by numerous humorous paragraphs on various campus activities. Two pages, one bearing a view of Wartburg's campus on the Cedar River, the other including photographs of the faculty and the two pages of seminary news (in German) completed the issue.

Personals evidently made up an important feature, for four pages of them were included. "Because of the illness of Miss Ida Ernst, she is all temporarily supplied with editorial work," was the explanation to the college property has been greatly increased by the gift of the new gymnasium," was included in the personals.

Another Personals Meet on Grid. Among athletic news we find announcement of a football game. Football was forbidden us by the faculty, however, so a player, against the wishes of the faculty, played quarterback. Scores we are allowed to forget.

The Philomathia and Concordia literary societies played a game in which the P. L. S. went down to defeat, 6 to 0. Rev. Ernst, reporter diplomatically remarks the scores were pretty evenly matched in struggle. J. Becker, a shifty Philomathian halfback, a college paper was not all joy. Business managers, for instance, must have spent many sleepless nights trying to balance receipts. The first issue included no advertising. Subscription price was 50 cents, but only subscribers must have been few, for the publication was dependent upon by faculty and easily received by all students.

The English editorial invites "Do your criticizing quietly, boys."

Appeared Irregularly.

That the Quarterly filled a student need is evidenced by readiness to pay for its printing in denominations by its regularity. The first story of 1907 the issues appeared irregularly, and the publication did not exist in 1908. Only two issues were printed, as was announced, in 1909, and no photography is the main feature.

The last issue of the Quarterly appears in 1910. A new exchange department was included, but evidently finances did not permit more issues, for again it was a one-time appearance.

The third issue, more pretentious, included "The Trumpet," a poem by E. J. Brudos, a short story by E. Mahrer, "Appetosse, a Legend of the Norse" by Otto Frosch, an editorial explaining the publication's policy, and a list of faculty, alumni, and student addresses. Emil W. Mahrer, Gustav Neumann, Otto L. Fuerbringer, George H. Vollmer, for its motto chose "Ad Astra per Aspera."

The new staff was also listed with George Landgrebe as editor and F. Vockler as business manager. Essays by members of the graduating class were included, ranging over a wide variety of fields. One title has real punch: "Love Does Not Always Prove Yet Ever the Fence Down?" The Chinese problem, the Filipino problem, socialism, and Greek literature also were up for their share of consideration.

The Fountain

The fountain has been informed that it should reduce. Dusty Rhodes, members of Wartburg women should reduce. Dusty Rhodes is doubling up to an awful pace now." Which reminds me . . . it's a shame that so upperclassmen are not willing for young people to evade the rules occasionally. Certainly rules should have the big head. All varieties of rubbernecks tend to keep their green caps.

The Fountain

Kuester simply must keep up his social standing. Only recently he was seen in a crowded assembly. We heard, "Where's my girl?" for Violet—still, or should I say "Hazel"—but not why did Hazel leave her cup on the other side of the city? . . . Setting her cap for Kelly?

Gurzles and Gurzles

Greenman has started housecleaning for open-house. A meticulous housewife, she spent a freshman to show she could outdo the Columbus system of tipping the Kitchen Police. Some of the boys, Rudolf and friends, Rodney Kuehn and Lorro Abre, Max and Arthur Neumann, Ben Ackermann, Lorro Fabretto, and Curt Schultz tries to rule that occasional housecleaning the order of this dribble . . . Ask Adolf.

Like Some Freshmen

As for rubbing the rubble, ask Spalding Cold Drips in a canoe at Cedar Falls. Some people must be exciting . . . Bucket is much too large for very much of that brawl. What a sank he got in that pool . . . Yes, we have to wait the other fellow.

When We Know

And then the Homecoming committees go round and round.

INDIAN SUMMER

By Margaret E. Sangster

Oh, I had thought that love would be
A gentle, sighing melody;
And I had thought it would appear
When springtime came to bless the year
With fragrance and with tender showers,
With skies of blue and sunlit hours!

But now I know— for love has swept Across my heart like fire that kept—
That time of smokiness in the fire
Of later days . . . that Spring's desire
Is but a fragile, silken flame
Against the autumn's gold and red . . .

The authorship of this column has changed since the last issue. Now it is in the hands of the erstwhile associate editor of the "Fountain"—Ike-Lily. Ike-Lily is a freshman—she who laughs—fast.

Here's a new angle on professional athletes—of the tongue.

After a long session of the committees around here one would judge that a hobo jungle is that which keeps minutes and wastes time. Some students around here call their rich relatives the man they live with.

One girl around here still thinks Lucy Ford is the author.

Could be said of the Boarding Club on Sunday—Sunday Eve—Monday Eve Merry—or Sorrowful Tuesday.

Understanding college-bred refers to the ability to read and write a normal amount of drawl.

Some of the co-eds on the quality groves to be rotating more on their buns a four-year basis.

I was told a bald-headed man has now hair to comb, but never has to wash—two of our Freshmen have a lot of fine to wash—no initiation . . . It has been said that some of the girls still like a wet towel flung into a corner of a bathroom after they've decided they were suffering from a compound fracture of the jugular vein.

High heels according to Dorothy Rose invented by a man who had had been kissed on that account.

Dorothy Rose thinks she's worthwhile to get one. One of the girls says she's afraid if she played with fire she'd get burned. Ruth replied, "Oh dear no, I don't know how to hold the fire!" Cute!

Motto of the old type practitioner "Don't tell what you've got" but Lucenay says "You've got what I treat."

If I've said something for which I am sorry—I'm glad of it.

CHURCH VALUES EMPHASIZED BY REV. ENGELKE

Religious Questions Dealt With by All Speakers.

Convocation speakers during the past two weeks included Rev. William Engelke of New Hampton, Iowa; Rev. F. S. Voss of Hudson, Iowa; Rev. O. Jahr of Strawberry Point; Doctor J. Hillmer; and Dean G. Neumann of Wartburg college. A wide variety of subject matter was treated.

Does the Church Fail?

Reverend Engelke spoke concerning the real purpose of our church on Wednesday, Oct. 7. Many people ask, "Does the church fail?" Reverend Engelke stated, "Spiritual values are not currency." The church reckons souls. She would justify her existence by this alone."

Another section of Reverend Engelke's talk dealt with the practical benefit which we derive from our church. "Our age is intensely practical. Be something useful or short be something of all. We are what we are because we have the light of the gospel."

In the last subject, Reverend Engelke expressed how we learn the desire to be active among the church. Honesty and integrity are others which have been cultivated by this institution. "It is the test of time to whom supports the church although all supporters get nothing from the business set back of the churches."

"The Challenges of Youth"

"The Challenges of Youth" was the subject of Rev. O. Schaefer's dress on Monday, Oct. 5. In part he said, "Our youth is one great challenge. It is for you and me to know how to meet the defiances of every-day life. We must study him in order to understand how to study the battles of life."

"We are not living in a Christian country. You youth gathered in the portals of Wartburg are given that which is necessary to wage battles. You are partaking in the mortar to hold the bricks for a Christian life and character in you."

Reverend Schaefer concluded, "Both we can overcome them if we will be devote and declare, 'I come unto you in the name of the Lord of hosts whom you have defied.'"

Christian Life.

Rev. O. Jahr gave the student body some valuable material on Monday, Oct. 12, by summarizing some of the phases of a real Christian life, and learning the audience to try to come nearer the goal which is set for all Christians.

"How can you be a true Christian? By holding to faith. Our charge is that we become the light of the world, the salt of the earth. If we do not do our part, what God expects us to do as Christians, we are fooling. We must fight! If we do not get anything for nothing."

"The Return to Religion"

Besides the out of town speakers, two members of the faculty, Dean Neumann and Doctor Hillmer, addressed the students.

Doctor Hillmer spoke about Henry C. Link's book, "The Return to Religion." In this book the author tells of his experience in his getting a world of belief in his faith in religion due to the psychological tests administered by himself. His experiences led him into the field of psychology, and he is now the Director of Psychology Service Center of New York City. The striking part of his life is that he was gradually drawn away to religion and is a staunch Christian.

Reporting from Doctor Hillmer's brief review of the book, the author found that there is a tendency among church-goers. Religion is not the refuge for the weak, but furnishes the weapon for those who would be strong.

Our Literature and Religion

Religion in literature was the subject of Dean Neumann's talk. He gave various examples of the manifestation of religion in our literature works, and dwelt particularly upon the works of Chaucer, Bede, and Ryswyck.

"All of literature is, in a sense, a basketful with the life we live, physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual. We are not surprised to find religion expressed in the literature of the world. It is more prominent than elsewhere. In the beginning of English literature, most of the writings are devoted to the Kingdom of God. Would that it would have continued in this channel."

KNIGHTS BEAT WAUKON 7-0 FOR FIRST VICTORY

Koob Recovers Fumble in End Zone for Lone Tally.

The Wartburg Knights won the first football game in the history of the school here Oct. 9, when they defeated a scrappy Waukon team 7-0.

The game proved to be a repetition of Wartburg's first two battles of the year as the Knights again found themselves leading the opposing team and drive to score from the 37 yard line. Koob recovered a Waukon fumble in the end zone for the only tally of the game. Carl Ellermeier kicked the point after the touchdown.

Knights Threaten.

While the powerful Knights offensive had a great edge throughout the battle, and repeatedly scores seemed imminent several times, Waukon's defense stiffened and staved off every drive of the Knights.

Early in the game Wartburg made a drive nine yards for a penalty. Wartburg received the ball on their own 37 yard stripe. Behind the hard driving of Ellermeier, Stelling and Dean, the ball was placed on the nine yard line, first down and goal to go. However, two fumbles in the backfield caused the Wartburg drive to fade.

In the second quarter the Knights made the longest sustained drive of the night when they advanced the ball from their own 35, after Harris had intercepted a pass, to the Waukon 19. Again a seemingly immanent score was thwarted in the bud as Waukon intercepted a Knight pass.

Wartburg received one more break in the first half when they blocked a Waukon punt and Waukon received a 15 yard penalty for roughness which placed the ball on their 19. Again the Knights were unable to crack Waukon's line and had the ball on the six yard line as the half ended.

Kick Blocked.

Waukon kickers, who had difficulty getting punts away from the Wartburg linemen, started the second half with a poor kick and Schlichte, Wartburg end, blocked the punt and Waukon received a 15 yard penalty for roughness which placed the ball on their 19. Again the Knights were unable to crack Waukon's line and had the ball on the six yard line as the half ended.

Kick Blocked.

Waukon kickers, who had difficulty getting punts away from the Wartburg linemen, started the second half with a poor kick and Schlichte, Wartburg end, blocked the punt and Nickel crashed through and blocked a punt on the 32 yard line and Koob recovered on the five. A 15 yard penalty for pushing the ball carrier set the Knights back and Harp coughed, regain the ground, losing the ball on downs, after a completed pass, on Waukon's five yard line.

Waukon then received an offside penalty to the one yard line, and Koob recovered a fumble for the only score.

Waukon Passes.

In a desperate effort to score in the final quarter the Waukon eleven opened up with an aerial attack. Waukon, however, could not complete enough successively to advance down the field. In the final minute of the game, after a long 60 yard punt, Waukon recovered a Knight fumble and ran again to score via the air route.

ASK ACK

By Sothe Ackerman

Well, the Knights finally got it. Yes sir, the Knights scored a victory. The first one in many starts. Lady Luck finally smiled upon Wartburg and the Knights have to make use of – deserved victories. Old Miss Goddo must have taken the night off in the face of the Warthog growling, and decided to go to the show instead.

Although the Herdsmen have not yet discovered the means to make the final ten yards in the last drive it is expected that since they have now tasted of victory they will not let Old Man Jinx bother them any from the rival line up longer.

Scores.

THE KNIGHTS still have a nut of their 8 outfits remaining on the schedule and probably the hardest games in the schedule are left in camp with the Upper Iowa Vists. In order for you to have an idea of what Wartburg still has to face let me give you some comparative score – but don't go too much by them.

THE MEN of Grussmann have followed the example of Ralph Waldo Emerson and following a recent organization meeting decided to have some steps formed in connection of pig-pong tables in the basement of Grussmann. Now all that is necessary for completely successful meet-ingery is the erection of some Ziggely-Wiggly ping-pong table tops.

The Knights showed some fight in the last quarter of the Waukon game when Waukon opened up with a determined aerial attack, but the Knights dug their cleats in and knocked down every pass, and made the passer run with the ball on the last down, when he could find no receivers open.

Ack Predicts.

HEH, HEH! I fooled you. We did win the Waukon game and now your scribe has a batting average of .333. Fortunate this, I won't leave it to you to my head. At least the victory again gives me courage to assume the role of a prognosticator. The Knights will now begin to go to town and will proceed on a merry victory ever to see Milton and follow it with a win over Mason City, I hope.

Brevities.

LOSING STREAK of the Knights in football had us wondering if we could equal the record of Knox college . . . they went 10 in a row . . . but that is a thing of the past . . . Two straight knocks and Waukon . . .

If we can't Waukon . . . we Waun't be the only one which the Knights did . . . Fanbait now means to us that chicken on dinner is forthcoming . . . Ray Ben . . . Ellermeier, Ellermeier and Dean . . . Knights are not quite at Milton just for the ride . . . Ellermeier and Kuse-ler taking off their dungaree . . . Sims.

INTRA-MURALS ARE ANNOUNCED

Hertel Plans Tournaments In Tennis, Horseshoe, and Touch Football.

Athletic Director Elmer Hertel has announced that a full program of men's intra-murals will be organized in the near future.

It is planned to conduct tournaments in tennis, horseshoes, and touch football.

Director Hertel will pass sheets to the first floor and all men who wish to engage in the sports may sign up. It is not known definitely yet whether medals or ribbons will be given in the various contests, but Director Hertel wishes to use this program as a climax to the fall work of the physical training classes.

After the program of intra-murals has been run off, the regular training classes will be moved into the gym because of cold weather. Soon afterwards tournaments will be organized in all the various indoor sports.

WARTBURG TO BATTLE MILTON

Mason City Is Knight Foe Oct. 23; Northwestern on Homecoming.

Enthused by a victory over the Waukon Juniors on Oct. 9, the Wartburg Knights prepared for their second game with a Tri-State Conference college, at Watertown, Wis., on Oct. 17.

Last year the Knights met Milton in the first home game of the season and dropped a close game 7-6 as the result of a blocked punt. Again this season observers say the Milton team is reports of their pre-season contests have not been forthcoming. Milton, however, is expected to present a very tough battle, and will probably use the same type of offense as the Knights have developed.

Mason City Oct. 23.

On the following Friday night the Knights will again journey away from home and meet the powerful Mason City eleven. Although only a junior college the Mohawk department a stiff battle for the Knights. Mason City seems to be figuring in the strife of the great Minnesota team and the Knights will be up against it if it proceeds as victorious. The Lutherans are planning on breaking this streak and getting revenge for a 25-6 defeat suffered at the hands of Mason City in the opener last year.

Homecoming Oct. 31.

Wartburg will stage its traditional Homecoming Oct. 31 with the fellow being the gridiron battle between the Wartburg Knights and the Northwestern Goslings. Last year the Knights provided the final touch to Northwestern's Homecoming when they dropped a close contest, 7-6. But that was last year. Now the Knights are planning on using the Goslings as a end for a glorious Homecoming.

Coach Elmer Hertel will probably retain the same starting line-up for all these contests of Wartburg's Knights. Nobe at ends, Gull and Kuester at tackles, Harris and Bergquam at guards, Arkenstam at center and a backfield of Ellermeier, Stelling, Sims, Harden, Oberleiter or Heist.
